A. News from OCPA

Activities of the Executive Director and the Secretariat

A.1 Lupwishi Mbuyamba Charing the Nhimbe Trust Board of Directors Meeting

OCPA Executive Director Lupwishi Mbuyamba, in his capacity of president of the NHIMBE TRUST Board of Directors, chaired the annual session of this Board in Bulawayo, Zimbabwe on November 1st. In addition to the review of the reports of the management and on the implementation of the program, the Council approved the first draft of the medium-term program of the NGO largely supported by AFRICALIA and authorized the acceptance of the donation of a property to be used to host programs of the Trust.

A.2 Preparation of the 6th SICADIA Meeting

The scientific and material preparation of SICADIA, 6th Summit of Cultural Institutions in Africa and the Diaspora, has occupied a big part of the program of the month. This activity will be held on 4 and 5 December 2018 in Niamey at CELHTO, Center for Linguistic and Historical Research by Oral Traditions of the African Union, when the Center will celebrate its 30th anniversary. Mr. Tublu, Coordinator of CELHTO has accompanied these preparations with remarkable attention, while Hamadou Mandé, the OCPA Assistant Research Coordinator continued liaising with the expected participants and prepared the program for this meeting.

A.3 The OCPA at the Bureau of the 5th African Union Cultural Congress

Immediately after Niamey, it is Victoria in Seychelles that will host a technical meeting of the Bureau of the 5th African Union Cultural Congress, of which Mr. Mbuyamba is First Vice-President. This meeting will be preceded by a review of the status of implementation of the African Union Creative and Cultural Industries Plan for possible revision.

A.4 At the Conference of Ministers of Culture of the Central African Countries

In this period, the Executive Director of the OCPA took part in the first Conference of Ministers in charge of Culture of the Central African Region at the initiative of ECCAS (Economic Community of Central African States) ) held in Brazzaville, Congo on November 30, 2018, preceded by a UNESCO Workshop on the Creative and Cultural Industries on November 27-28.

A.5 The OCPA at the Maputo International Conference on Tourism

In Maputo in the meantime, Maria Manjate, OCPA Program Officer, participated in an International Conference on Tourism (Maputo, 26-28 November 2018) in which the Observatory was represented at the invitation of the Minister of Culture and Tourism.

A.6 The OCPA at the Executive Board of the International Music Council

The same was true of the meeting of the Executive Board of the International Music Council, of which OCPA is a member organization, which took place in Nairobi, Kenya on 19 and 20 November. Mrs. Mireille Nziengue, Administrative Assistant of the African Music Council assured the regional representation there.

A.7 Regional seminar on the status of the African artist (Ségou, Mali, 27-28 January 2019) - a project promoted by OCPA and its partners

This seminar will be realized by OCPA and the Niger River Foundation in cooperation with the Regional Center for the Living Arts in Africa (CERAV/AFRICA, Bobo Dioulasso, Burkina Faso) in order to deepen the reflection on the status of the African artist. This subject deserves a lot of attention because art plays an important role in the life of societies. Thus, there is a need to study the personality, as well as the way of living and creating of the producers of this art.

It is therefore entirely appropriate that cultural organizations get involved in research on this issue. This is the case of CERAV, the regional center for the framing and promotion of the arts, and the Niger Festival Foundation, whose annual Festival is an eloquent testimony of the social role played by art and the artist in a region. This is the case of OCPA whose mission is to promote cultural policies attentive to the aspirations of the peoples.

For two days, participants assisted by experts in the fields of creation, production and distribution of cultural good and services will address issues like artists' situation, their social recognition, rights and obligations, the business environment and the markets for their products, national laws and related regional and international cooperation agreements.

The goal of the meeting is first to provide information on the rights and duties of each partner, to review and redefine practices and policies that facilitate their implementation. Finally, it is to promote societies where the respect for everyone contributes to sustainable development.

The seminar will be held with the participation of around 40 experts and will be led by Malian, regional and international specialists expected to facilitate the compilation of a draft guide and a call for a pan-African conference on this issue.

Inscriptions to this meeting are open.

B.1 BRICS countries commit to speeding up cultural cooperation

After months of consultations Ministers of Culture of Brazil, Russia, India, China and South Africa (BRICS) signed in Johannesburg on 31 October 2018 a declaration to accelerate cooperation in cultural areas.

South Africa's Minister of Arts and Culture Nathi Mthethwa urged the speedy implementation of the declaration: "We have to instruct the working group to begin work. Cultural diplomacy has to be accelerated. This must not be confined to the boardrooms but should go to the people." He said BRICS are convinced that culture has to play a central role in the 4th industrial revolution.

The culture ministers agreed to engage the New Development Bank to fund cultural and creative industry programs. They endorsed the establishment of the cultural working group of BRICS countries to foster people to people cooperation and cooperation in the creative industry.

The ministers also endorsed institution-to-institution collaborations. These include cooperation in BRICS Alliances for Museums and Arts Galleries.

B.5 Visa For Music (Rabat, Morocco, 21 – 24 November 2018)

Launched in 2013, Visa For Music (VFM), the first professional market /festival of Africa and Middle-East musics is organizing its 5th edition in 2018, with about 30 showcases at the center of the project, but also conferences, speed-meetings, workshops and trainings...

This project was born to improve the visibility of African and Middle-Eastern artists at an international level and of the artistic dynamism and musical creation from these musicians. Thus Visa For Music has as first goal to highlight the artistic creation of Africa and the Middle-East.

The six main objectives of Visa For Music are:

- Promote music from Morocco, Africa and the Middle-East to northern markets;
- Encourage artistic mobility between African countries and the Middle-East;
- Participate in the development of the local cultural sector in these areas;
- Develop the music scene at an international level;
- Contribute to the improvement of the status of artists from southern countries;
- Strengthen the North-South and South-South relationships in the cultural sector.

For now VFM became one of the essential meeting places for professionals of the whole music industry thousands of professionals assisting to the showcases by some 1000 artists.

C.1 The New Cultural Policy of Sierra Leone - Edited by Professor C. M. Fyle (2018,86 p.)

In the introduction of this document, the Minister of Tourism and Cultural Affairs of Sierra Leone, Hon. Peter Bayuku Konteh stresses that the richness of the country's cultural identity, unique even though it has markedly been influenced by outside cultures.

The Civil Conflict had a negative impact on the development of this culture. The end of the conflict has opened new era and a new beginning: the post war Cultural Revolution.

This National Cultural Policy was prepared with the involvement of a team of experts and professionals, politicians, paramount chiefs from different fields who contributed to this work.

The aims and objectives of the policy are meant to set the standards and establish benchmarks that will guide our national activities and aspirations in the culture sector for the next few years, enriching Sierra Leoneans individually and as a nation, strengthening our unity in diversity and projecting a positive image of our country onto the international arena.

The vision and mission of the Policy is to preserve, protect and promote cultural diversity, with a view to reviving and strengthening national consciousness, understanding and appreciation of the cultural heritage and artistic creativity, and enhance its contribution to poverty reduction and overall national development.

The Aims of the Policy on culture in Sierra Leone is to

- enrich national identity, strengthen cultural understanding and appreciation of the arts;
- incorporate cultural elements in national development, poverty reduction, quality of life.

The strategic objectives of the policy are among others to

- evolve a national culture and to foster a stronger sense of national identity;
- preserve authentic heritage elements and their integration in our contemporary culture;
- provide the facilities and resources for the protection cultural heritage;
- protect the tangible, oral and intangible cultural heritage;
- define the responsibilities of agencies for the implementation of the Policy;
- facilitate the establishment of mechanisms for competitive cultural industries;
- promote the training and capacity development of cultural practitioners;
- integrate relevant aspects of our cultural objectives into development policies;
- assert our identity through various marketing outlets and cultural exchange programmes;
- support cultural research and information for fostering cultural development;
- ensure continuous and systematic monitoring, evaluation and review of cultural policies.

This document outlines a National Cultural Policy for Sierra Leone under the following headings: (1) Background and Context, (2) Situation Analysis of Culture, (3) Key Policy Issues and Implementation Strategies, (4) Framework for Policy Administration and Implementation, (5) Support for and Financing of Culture and (6) Monitoring, Evaluation and Review of the Policy.

D.2 EU Directive on Copyright in the Digital Single Market

COPYRIGHT is a big issue in the digital age. The copyright debate is raging largely between the European Union (EU) and the big technology giants. EU lawmakers have been working for two years on proposed legislation aimed at updating copyright for the digital age.

In September European parliament voted to approve amended versions of the copyright directive's two most controversial provisions, articles 11 and 13. Article 11, forces news aggregation and search sites such as Google and Facebook to pay publishers for showing news snippets or linking to news stories on other sites. Article 13 would make platforms such as YouTube seek licences for content such as music videos, which artists say will allow them to properly negotiate better royalties.

The creative industries have celebrated the vote as a win for the Europeans' creatives works. As the world attempts to keep up with digital technology, coyright is one of the key issues in a battle for a content-led internet that relies on creative inputs to generate revenue outputs.

D.4 Important interregional conference on preservation of memory and accessibility to documentary heritage organized by UNESCO (Panama, 24 - 27 October 2018)

As part of this unprecedented event for the Memory of the World Program (MOW), UNESCO brought together representatives from 46 countries in Panama to explore ways to create conditions conducive to the preservation and accessibility of documentary heritage.

This interregional meeting is UNESCO's strategic response to the broader context of sustainable development to preserve and ensure access to documentary heritage.

The Interregional Conference is one of the meetings organized by the MOW Secretariat to promote support for activities aimed at preserving and creating the conditions for universal access to documentary heritage. UNESCO launched the MOW program in 1992 to prevent collective amnesia by preserving valuable archives and libraries around the world. In doing so, the program also offers wider access to this heritage.

Africa: 'Give Africa Its Art Back', Macron's Report Recommends

A new report on the status of African artefacts held in various French museums will recommend the president to return the pieces which were stolen or taken "without consent" during the colonial period. The report recommends full restitution not the long-term loan of such objects. A report commissioned by French President Emmanuel Macron will recommend the full return of African artefacts held by French museums taken "without consent" from former African colonies reports suggest. The 108-page study presented to President Macron on 23 November. In the report the experts argue that the complete transfer of property back to Africa and not the long-term loan of objects to African museums should be the general rule for works taken in the colonial period unless it can be proven that these objects were acquired "legitimately".

Nigeria: Soyinka Decries Low Literacy Level in Nigeria

Lagos — Nobel laureate, Professor Wole Soyinka yesterday lamented low level of literacy in the country, saying this is evident from the conducts of the younger generation. He stated this in his speech at the finals of the Lafarge Africa National Literacy Competition (LANLC) held in Lagos said the nation must double her effort to ensure that literacy is not relegated. The teachers must ensure that students are not corrupted with what they read in the media. There are errors in the use of Language both in English and local languages. He, therefore, urged organisations to organise programmes that would help to raise literacy level in the country.

Malawi: Chewa King Gawa Undi Calls for Abolishment of Harmful Cultural Practices

Powerful Chewa king Gawa Undi has called for an immediate abolishment of harmful cultural practices. The king said this when he visited traditional leaders during his tour to Malawi. He also told parents to stop marrying off their daughters, saying the girls need to be in school and get all the education they needed. The King asked the people to abandon all cultural practices that are harmful in the society. "Be an advocate for change. Say no to all harmful practices and all the poverty plus sexually transmitted diseases will be history," said Gawa Undi. He also asked all people to take part in government development activities including planting of vegetation. The King advised families to be transparent to each other in terms of the worth they acquire in marriage. Read more at <https://allafrica.com/stories/201810300841.html>

We Need Cultural Rights for All – by Basma El Hussein

This study reminds us that one fifth of the world’s population (7.6 billion) live in slums and other informal settlements that lack most basic services. These populations are by large located in developing countries in Africa, Asia, Latin America and the Middle East. The economic and social disparities between rich and poor countries are striking. Art has a capacity to discuss, criticize and create ideas and values, it gives people tools and platforms to analyze their reality, therefore, we need Cultural Rights for all.
