A.News about OCPA and its Web Site/Nouvelles sur OCPA et sur son site internet

A.1 OCPA List Serve beyond 5000 Addresses

With the OCPA web site, OCPA News, the electronic information bulletin of the Observatory that you receive twice a month, is our most important information tool. This service started in July 2001 as a periodical mail sent initially only to members of the OCPA Task Force and participants of the preparatory meetings. Since August 2004, OCPA News is distributed through UNESCO's mail service in a short version with a link to the full version posted on OCPA web site. Presently, OCPA News is sent to more than 5000 addresses mainly in Africa, but also in other regions. The OCPA list serve is meant to reach also the African diaspora organizations and communities in the various continents.

The threefold objective of this service is to:

- Facilitate a regular information flow concerning cultural policy and cultural development in Africa;
- Disseminate cultural news items from Africa towards networks in other regions;
- Provide African experts and institutions with information on important cultural policy initiatives and projects carried out in other regions.

If you have information likely to interest the readers of OCPA News, please mail it to ocpanews@ocpanet.org.

La liste de distribution OCPA au-delà des 5000 adresses

Avec le site web, OCPA News, le bulletin d'information électronique de l'Observatoire qui vous parvient deux fois par mois, est notre outil d'information le plus important. Ce service a été lancé en juillet 2001, initialement comme un courrier périodique envoyé seulement aux membres de l'équipe spéciale OCPA et aux participants des réunions préparatoires.

Depuis août 2004, OCPA News est diffusé via le service de courrier électronique de l'UNESCO dans une version allégée avec l'adresse où la version complète peut être accédée sur le site OCPA. Actuellement OCPA News est envoyé à plus de 5000 adresses en Afrique, mais aussi dans les autres régions. La liste de distribution OCPA attache une importance particulière à atteindre les organisations et les communautés de la diaspora dans les divers continents.

L'objectif de ce service est triple

- Faciliter un échange d'information régulière concernant les politiques culturelle et le développement culturel au niveau de l'Afrique;
- Diffuser des informations africaines vers les réseaux des autres régions;
- Tenir au courant les spécialistes et les institutions africaines des initiatives et des projets importants réalisés dans d'autres régions en matière de politiques culturelles.

Si vous avez des informations susceptibles d'intéresser le public d'OCPA News, veuillez les envoyer à : ocpanews@ocpanet.org

B.2 The Foundation for Endangered Languages: Ninth Conference - Creating Outsiders: Endangered Languages, Migration and Marginalization, Stellenbosch, South Africa, 18-20 November 2005

Today's world-maps, political and linguistic, were laid out through human population movements, some ancient but some of them very recent. In this year's conference we want to address the effects of these movements on language communities: how they dissolve communities, and change their status; how communities may re-form in foreign places, and the relations between incomers and the established populations, whichever has the upper hand; the impact of empires, deportation, mass immigration, population loss from emigration.

C.2 Le Centre africain de formation à l'édition et à la diffusion (CAFED) – En 15 ans plus de 500 professionnels francophones formés aux métiers du livre

L'Agence intergouvernementale de la Francophonie a célébré vendredi 20 mai 2005 à Tunis le 15^e anniversaire du Centre africain de formation à l'édition et à la diffusion (Cafed), un programme décentralisé consacré à la formation permanente dans les métiers du livre qu'elle a mis en place en 1990 grâce à un accord avec le gouvernement tunisien.

Pour accompagner la politique de formation, plusieurs ouvrages ont été publiés dans le cadre du programme, notamment à l'attention des formateurs dont un « Manuel pratique d'édition pour l'Afrique francophone » conçu sous forme de fiches didactiques (2^e édition en 2002), et « Libraire en Afrique ».

C.3 Le droit d'auteur dans les Etats membres de l'organisation africaine de la propriété intellectuelle (OAPI): une harmonisation inachevée? -Par Laurier Yvon NGOMBE (Article publié dans le e.Bulletin du droit d'auteur, janvier-mars 2005

Extraits des conclusions: L'harmonisation du droit d'auteur en Afrique semble inachevée dans l'espace OAPI. L'on peut tout d'abord souhaiter un plus grand effort de transposition des règles régionales, même si on peut estimer, après d'autres auteurs⁴⁹, que l'annexe VII de l'Accord de Bangui a un caractère souple et ne paraît pas s'imposer de façon obligatoire - pour son intégralité - aux Etats contractants.

Par ailleurs, il sera opportun de prévoir des règles de droit international privé applicables dans l'espace OAPI, car il n'est pas possible, du moins pour l'instant, d'aboutir à une uniformisation, même régionale, du droit d'auteur.

C.5 The Department of African Languages, the University of Stellenbosch (SA)

The Department of African Languages has been with the University of Stellenbosch for many fruitful years. As early as in 1924, the Senate of the University proposed that a Department of so-called "Bantu studies" should be established.

The young Department concentrated on studies around African Languages, in areas such as ethnography. In time, it became apparent that there was a growing need for language acquisition. The Department of African Languages, as it exists today, continuously introduces innovative courses and research projects to equip itself for the future. The Department still offers language acquisition courses on an undergraduate level, but also has expanded its course material to meet the growing demand of mother tongue speakers at the University. Literature, Syntax, Semantics, Morphology, Phonology, as well as Communication and Cultural Studies, now make up a part of the undergraduate course material.
